The opportunities for tomorrow depend on how we act today. For Geberit, this means acting with reason and vision. With innovations that assume responsibility for generations to come and actively promote our environment.

Environmentally friendly products

Geberit's ceramic sanitary appliances protect the environment and resources in several respects. The toilet can be flushed with low flush volumes and therefore save water, while the surfaces are easy to keep clean and save on cleaning agents. The KeraTect® special glaze is particularly easy to clean.

Geberit ceramic sanitary appliances are 100% recyclable. They consist largely of the natural minerals quartz, feldspar, clay and kaolin. The glaze is 100% lead-free.

Pronounced quality awareness

Geberit products are carefully developed for long-term use. Thorough function tests, load tests, digital measurements and TÜV-certified safety all ensure technical reliability, comfort and future-proof solutions. Geberit was the first bathroom ceramics manufacturer in Europe to receive DIN EN ISO 9001 certification for outstanding quality management.

Optimised production and logistics

Back in 1994, Geberit became the first company in the sanitary ceramics industry to be awarded the TÜV environmental management certificate for energy-saving and environmentally friendly production processes. The company continuously works to achieve further improvements across the entire production and logistics chain.
